

APPLIED STATISTICS, SOCIAL SCIENCE, AND HUMANITIES (ASH-GE)

ASH-GE 2000 New Graduate Student Orientation Seminar (0 Credits)

Typically offered Fall

Course is designed for newly accepted students in the Department of Humanities & Social Sciences. The course will give an introduction to graduate student life & will provide tools & resources to promote academic & professional success.

Grading: Grad Steinhardt Pass/Fail

Repeatable for additional credit: No

ASH-GE 3002 Doctoral Seminar I (3 Credits)

Typically offered Fall, Spring, and Summer terms

This seminar will allow students to read the seminal literature in their field of study and to engage with other students in extended discussion of the importance of critical reading of any and all texts.

Grading: Grad Steinhardt Graded

Repeatable for additional credit: Yes

ASH-GE 3003 Doctoral Seminar II (3 Credits)

Typically offered Fall, Spring, and Summer terms

This seminar will help to guide students as they develop a dissertation proposal.

Grading: Grad Steinhardt Pass/Fail

Repeatable for additional credit: Yes

ASH-GE 3004 Doctoral Seminar III (1 Credit)

Typically offered Fall and Spring

Provides an opportunity to discuss progress and problems encountered in the writing of the dissertation. Students are expected to report on their research progress every semester and to offer constructive criticism to the other students in the group.

Grading: Grad Steinhardt Pass/Fail

Repeatable for additional credit: Yes

ASH-GE 3011 Department Seminar I (3 Credits)

Typically offered Fall

This seminar will introduce students to some of the central questions in history, the social sciences, the humanities, and the arts.

Grading: Grad Steinhardt Graded

Repeatable for additional credit: No