

ADVISING

Advisement and Mentoring

NYU Abu Dhabi provides students with a network of support resources through a variety of academic and administrative offices that support student learning, academic performance, and extra-curricular exploration. At the center of this support is the newly-founded John Sexton and Lisa Goldberg Academic Resource Center.

Academic Resource Center (The “ARC”)

The NYUAD John Sexton and Lisa Goldberg Academic Resource Center’s Advising team supports students in meeting their academic goals. Academic Advisors utilize a student-centered approach to help new and continuing students persist through to graduation.

Academic advising is an essential resource in a globally diverse environment where students come with varied educational backgrounds and experiences. Having access to consistent and reliable information and building their academic planning competencies, ensures that students are equipped with the knowledge and skills to make informed decisions.

Advisors provide a variety of support, including, but not limited to:

- Academic planning
- Navigating degree requirements
- Choosing a major
- Understanding academic policies
- Accessing resources on campus
- Connecting with faculty and departments
- Monitoring degree progress
- Academic problem solving

Currently located in C2 E203, students can visit the ARC for in person drop in hours and book appointments or email advisors at nyuad.arc@nyu.edu. For more information on how to meet with an advisor, visit the ARC webpage at <https://students.nyuad.nyu.edu/academics/academic-planning/academic-advising/>

Other Advising Resources

Office of Graduate and Postdoctoral Programs Office

The Office of Graduate and Postdoctoral Programs (located in the Campus Center C2 W212) also supports postdoctoral associates by providing services and resources that enhance their research and that provide the skills needed to successfully transition to an academic or non-academic career. The Office fosters a sense of community for postdoctoral associates that prioritizes excellence, collaboration, and wellness.

Student Success and Well-Being

This Office supports student learning through focusing on study skills, time management, and other important areas of personal growth that can be integral in academic success.
