

COST OF ATTENDANCE

NYU Grossman School of Medicine is proud to offer a Full-Tuition Scholarship (<https://med.nyu.edu/education/md-degree/affordability-financial-aid/types-financial-aid/>) to all our current and entering students in our MD degree program. Starting with the 2021–22 academic year, we are also able to provide a need-based Debt-Free Scholarship to be able to meet 100 percent of our MD students' demonstrated financial need with scholarships instead of loans to those who qualify. Each student must maintain academic progress in accordance with NYU Grossman School of Medicine's Satisfactory Academic Progress Policy (<https://med.nyu.edu/education/md-degree/sites/default/files/nyu-school-of-medicine-satisfactory-academic-progress-policy.pdf>).

In addition to the scholarship packages available, we are now able to cover the cost of health insurance coverage for all medical school students. This year, that expense is $6,378 which saves the student an additional $19,134 during the course of their medical education.

The following tables represent tuition and additional expenses that approximate the cost of attending NYU Grossman School of Medicine for MD students enrolling in the upcoming academic year.

All students are required to have health insurance through NYU Grossman School of Medicine's student health insurance plan (<https://med.nyu.edu/education/md-degree/current-md-students/student-health-wellness-services/health-insurance/>). NYU Langone Health covers the full cost of the student insurance plan, students will not receive a bill.

Additional Information

- Tuition and Fees (<https://bulletins.nyu.edu/graduate/medicine-grossman/cost-attendance/tuition-fees/>)
- Financial Aid (<https://bulletins.nyu.edu/graduate/medicine-grossman/cost-attendance/financial-aid/>)