

FINANCIAL AID

NYU Grossman Long Island School of Medicine is proud to award Full-Tuition Scholarships for its three-year accelerated MD program to all matriculated students regardless of need or merit who maintain satisfactory academic progress and professionalism standards. Additional need-based Debt-Free Scholarships are available to qualified students who have demonstrated financial need to help pay for the remaining cost of attendance above tuition including housing, food, books, and other miscellaneous expenses. Many medical students qualify for these need-based Debt-Free Scholarships which reduce the total cost of their medical degree even further.

To learn more about the types of financial aid, applying for financial aid, and financial education resources please visit the NYU Grossman Long Island School of Medicine's Financial Aid website.