

ACCREDITATION

New York University is an accredited institution and a member of the Middle States Commission on Higher Education (MSCHE) www.msche.org (<http://www.msche.org>). New York University's accreditation status is 'accreditation reaffirmed.' The Commission's most recent action on the institution's accreditation status on June 26, 2014 was to reaffirm accreditation. MSCHE is an institutional accrediting agency recognized by the U.S. Secretary of Education and the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA).

The University's accreditation timetable is accessible on the Accreditation (<https://www.nyu.edu/academics/accreditation-authorization-assessment/accreditation.html>) webpage. In addition to the institutional accreditation granted by MSCHE, certain schools, colleges, academic programs, and units undergo assessment by specialized and professional accrediting bodies. Professional accreditation for individual colleges and schools adheres to the guidelines established by the pertinent professional associations. For additional details, please reach out to the respective school or college.