

FACILITIES

Research Centers & Institutes

As the academic heart of NYU, Arts & Science nurtures a thriving community of global scholars whose engagement within and across their disciplines continuously pushes the frontiers of knowledge. Pivotal to this effort are the research centers, institutes, and language and cultural houses (<https://as.nyu.edu/academics/research-centers.html>) across our academic unit. These are sites of scientific, intellectual, cultural, and artistic exchange between the Arts & Science faculty, students, and the broader community in New York City and across the world.

La Maison Française

La Maison Française (<https://as.nyu.edu/nyu-as/as/research-centers/maisonfrancaise.html>) serves as a major forum for cultural exchange between the French-speaking world and the United States, through a rich program of lectures, exhibitions, festivals, and more.

The University Learning Center

The College of Arts and Science operates Learning Centers in the Academic Resource Center or ARC (18 Washington Place) and in University Hall (110 East 14th Street, UHall Commons). The Learning Centers provide extensive academic support services, free of charge, to students in all divisions of the University who take courses in the College. With their highly visible and accessible settings, they serve to link academics with students' residential and campus lives. Services offered by the centers include the following:

- Individual and group tutoring sessions
- Examination review sessions
- Study skills assessment and academic skills workshops
