

COURSE INVENTORY A-Z

The School of Global Public Health offers courses that combine elements of research, policy, and practice, giving students an essential conceptual and theoretical foundation that is complemented by practical, real-world experience.

NYU will be in-person in the fall, so the majority of the GPH courses will be in-person, though we will still be offering our regular online courses, indicated by the 5000-level course number.

Descriptions & Syllabi

Quick Links

- Graduate & Doctoral Courses (<https://publichealth.nyu.edu/programs/courses/descriptions-syllabi/#graduatecourses>)
- Undergraduate Courses (<https://publichealth.nyu.edu/programs/courses/descriptions-syllabi/#undergraduatecourses>)

All course titles are linked to a sample syllabus with a general course description. Please note that courses taught by multiple faculty will slightly vary in syllabus content.

- Undergraduate Global Public Health (UGPH-GU) (<https://bulletins.nyu.edu/undergraduate/global-public-health/courses/ugph-gu/>)