

HUMANITIES (MINOR)

Program Description

The humanities integrate different disciplinary perspectives on what it means to be human. Courses give students the opportunity to explore a range of topics, time periods, and world regions by taking classes in art history and theory, history, human geography, literature, philosophy, and related fields including environmental studies, gender and sexuality studies, science and technology studies, and urban humanities. Humanities minors learn myriad scholarly methods and approaches, including historiography, literary analysis, and philosophical argumentation. The Humanities minor trains students in creative analysis, critical interpretative skills, thoughtful argumentation, and clarity in written and verbal communication.

Policies

Minor Policies

Students may minor in subjects outside of their major. A minor in a secondary subject enables a student to acquire a useful understanding of concepts and analysis without the same degree of coverage as would be obtained in a major. A grade of C or better is required for a course to be counted toward a minor. If a student fails a course required for the minor, the course must be retaken at NYU; a course taken outside the University will not normally be allowed to substitute for a minor requirement. No course for the minor may be taken as pass/fail. Students may use Core Curriculum classes to fill minor requirements but at least 12 credits of the minor must be unique to the minor, meaning that it is not double-counted with any other major, minor, or core requirement.

Additionally, no single course may be used to meet more than two requirements.
